

The Science behind Breasts and Bras

HCFWI 2020 Science Lunch

As women many of us will have had the delights of trying to find the bra that fits, doesn't rub, and keeps "them" secure (or even shows them off!). But what about the science behind our breasts and the bras we wear. At this Science (bring your own) Lunch Jenny Burbage from the University of Portsmouth will tell us about the problem with breasts, the science behind our bras and give us some hints and tips on finding the holy grail of a good bra.

Life in the pandemic means our Science Lunch will be a little different this year. In this evening Science Lunch join us with your own "packed lunch" or evening tippie or cuppa on zoom for 7.30pm. There will plenty of opportunities to ask questions and a tea break half way for re-fills and additional snacks. We look forward to seeing you at our first Online Science Lunch.
